

Gilbert Library Chatter
By Jackie Larsen

The hustle and bustle of the holidays are past. The school routine is back in full swing so come into the library and find something good to read. We have spaces available in a Tuesday Evening Book Club, stop in and sign up.

Find an old favorite and relive those great memories from the last time you read the book. Look for something that you wouldn't normally read and see if it becomes a new favorite. Or just walk through the doors and see some of the students' works of art that is on display.

Watch for upcoming articles with new book titles and more information from Gilbert Public Library. We look forward to seeing you.

For Adults

Don't Bet Against Me by Deanna Farve

My Grandfather's Son by Clarence Thomas

T is for Trespass by Sue Grafton

Plum Lucky by Janet Evanovitch

My Hitch In Hell-Surviving the Bataan Death March by Lester I. Tenney

Beverly Hills Dead by Stuart Woods

For Children

Night Catch by Brenda Ehrmantraut

Library Lion by Michelle Knudsen

Medusa Jones by Ross Collins

Heat by Mike Lupica

The Way by Joseph Bruchac

Cassandra's Sister – Growing Up Jane Austen by Veronica Bennett

The Whale Scientists by Fran Hodgkins