

Journalism scholarships offered by Neb. Press

The Nebraska Press Association (NPA) Foundation recently announced that it will award up to four scholarships of $2000 each for the 2008-2009 school year.

Applicants must either be a junior or senior in Nebraska high school, who are enrolled or plan to enroll in a print journalism degree program in a Nebraska college or university; or a college/university student who graduated in prior years, are attending a Nebraska college or university full-time in the pursuit of a degree in print journalism.
