

Santa visits Exeter
by Leesa K. Bartu

Santa arrived in Exeter on Saturday morning just in time to beat the predicted bad weather.

Sponsored again by the Exeter Chamber of Commerce Santa visited with all of the children who came to see him. Some brought him letters and pictures while others whispered in his ear. Almost all of the kids had a request for Santa.

There were a few of the younger children who were afraid of Santa but gave their requests to brothers and sisters or sat with Mom and talked to Santa.

If you missed Santa's stop in Exeter you can still let him know what is on your list. The Exeter Post Office will send your letter to the North Pole and you can also visit websites like emailsanta.com and send an instant email letter to Santa and he will email you back.

For those of you old enough to write him a letter it's always good practice to send a back up note (and good practice for spelling and writing). Don't forget to leave him a thank you note and some goodies Christmas Eve.
